

M.O.C. Woodworks Company Biography

M.O.C. Woodworks® is a subsidiary of NePalo Cabinetmakers, a California-based maker of quality custom furniture established in 2003, and as such is committed to the highest standard in craftsmanship, design and materials. Aaron Weinstock, a meticulous craftsman and avid cook, owns the company and creates each of its products by hand in his workshop in California.

M.O.C. Woodworks' signature product, the M.O.C. Boards, a magnetic wood knife holder, provides a versatile storage solution to hold, organize and protect knives, as well as to hold tools, key chains, scissors, and anything that is attracted to a magnetic field. The 12 and 18-inch magnetic boards are made out of one of several types of wood, including Maple, Cherry, Walnut, White Oak, Wenge, and Zebrawood. The boards are a perfect addition to any home or work space as they deliver elegance with a touch of magic as metal items are drawn to the board and stick firmly in place.

The M.O.C. Woodworks boards consistently receive exemplary customer testimonials and have additionally been featured in notable publications such as The Chicago Tribune and The Detroit News.

The retail pricing for M.O.C. Woodworks' boards vary from $45-100 depending on the wood type and size. The boards are available for purchase through various retailers as well as on the M.O.C. Woodworks' website at www.mocwoodworks.com.
